Project Title: All Roads Lead Downhill: Almabtrieb, Alpine Tradition

Wiki link: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Almabtrieb

For my microsite, I want to dive into the Alpine parade of Almabtrieb, which is German for 'drive downwards from the mountain pasture.' Almabtrieb is essentially when cattle are moved from the mountains to lower altitudes to prepare for winter. It takes place in late September/early October every year.

I'm most familiar with Almabtrieb, but there are other examples of cow parades outside of this tradition.

I think this website would work best as one continuous page that details the history of Almabtrieb. I also think it would be nice to have a section that details other examples of cow parades.

There is a lot of imagery to play with for this topic. People dress up the cows in flower crowns and such, and Almabtrieb has become a sort of tourist attraction during the season.

Structure:

- Intro: What is Almabtrieb? What locations does it take place in?
- History: Why does it exist? What traditions does it follow? Could talk about transhumance, a "mobile pastoralism in which grazing livestock are moved (droved) in herds seasonally between several fixed pastures." What does the journey typically entail?
- Present-Day Festivities: How many cows? How many people attend? What does the festival look like for humans?
- Connections: What other cultures have similar traditions?
    - Trailing of the Sheep in Idaho
    - Yaylak in Central & West Asia
    - Redyk in Poland (on transhumance wiki)
